SAGINAW TAKES BACK TROLLEYS

2-Year Jitney Experiment Fails in Michigan

JITNEYS VOTED OUT

All of Public Discontented, Including Drivers

NOTE—This is the second of a series of articles describing conditions brought about in American cities through throwing their streets open to jitney service in competition with street car service, or as a substitute for street car service. The first article told of the experiment by Akron, Ohio, and was published Sunday in The News.

Special to The News.

SAGINAW, Mich., March 31.—After a full two years without trolley service Saginaw has voted out the jitneys.

During those two years Saginaw's citizens had every opportunity to provide themselves with substitute transportation, but difficulty in financing jitney lines was only a minor problem. The real reason had to do with the jitneys themselves.

Two-Year Experiment Failure has been written across Saginaw's experiment.

The jitney experiment here was the largest of its kind ever tried in an American city, it is believed. Had a real service resulted it probably would have been given a chance to succeed and would have been extensively patronized. The problem was one of adequacy and regulation. Responsible firms refused to finance jitney service. Financial men were skeptical, claiming that it had never proved a success in any city where tried, and refused to back it financially. The result was a horde of individual interests operating jitneys, discussions arising over who was to have the best routes, schedules were haphazard, accidents occurred through the impossibility of securing a smoothly working system and people took the jitneys, finally, only when it was impossible to get anywhere on time without them.

Loss Hundreds of Thousands.

Business was in dire straits. Estimates of the financial losses incurred not only by business men but wage earners, home owners and others, would place them up in the hundreds of thousands.

At the end of the two year trial period the situation seemed to be in a worse pass than at any time since the street cars stopped running. A few manufacturers who had backed the jitney men pulled their cars out of Saginaw in the hope of recouping some of their losses elsewhere.

Drivers of the remaining jitneys protested that they were not making any money. Then a two-fare system with a zone line in the center of the town was established. They operated on this basis until the cars came back.

Saginaw voted the jitneys out because the car riders, women with children, wage earners and the masses generally declared they wanted dependable transportation.

When street cars were operating, they carried, in 1910, approximately 9,000,000 passengers. The jitneys never carried 1,000,000 in a single year, according to best available reports.

HE KILLS WIFE, HANGS HIMSELF

Texan's Body Found on Tree After Killing

By United Press.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Texas, March 31.—After shooting his estranged wife with a shotgun, John Hinson took his own life by hanging himself to a tree, authorities believed today.

The body of Hinson, who was being sought for his wife's murder, was found hanging from a tree near his home.

The wife's body was found in the house, the head blown off by a shotgun.

Neighbors said the couple quarreled recently and had agreed to separate.

Chautauqua Details To Be Worked Out

Final details of the chautauqua week for Port Arthur will be worked out by the local association at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce and Shipping, C. E. Earhart, president, said today.

Reserved seats for the chautauqua, opening Friday night in Lake Shore park north of the high school building, went on sale at the K. C. Rogers store today, and season tickets are being sold by the members of the association, Earhart said.

A report on a recent meeting of chautauqua officials and guarantors held in Houston will be made tonight before the Port Arthur association by R. C. Reed, secretary of the association here.

Lions Draft Citizens to Make City Spotless Town

ALL right, folks, haul out the spade and the hoe, the lawn mower, the paint brush and the broom, the new duds and the spring tonic!

In clean-up parlance today's the first day of spring!

Today you can celebrate it as you renovate and rejuvenate.

Boy Scouts, working in divisions, will exercise a sort of overzealousness of the clean-up campaign, which will continue through the week. The campaign itself is sponsored by the Lions Club and is backed by other organizations striving to a cleaner city.

"Bob" the lawn, trim the hedges, gather up the trash and tin cans and old tires, boxes, knick-knacks and everything else that clutters up the premises.

And don't forget the old bottles!

Twenty wagons have been donated by citizens to make clean-up week a success and these will call for the debris free of charge.

If you have anything combustible to combust—Fire Chief LaRose and Dr. O. I. Baker will tell you how to combust it without violating any ordinances.

The Lions Club has offered three prizes of $20, $15 and $10 to the Scouts who in the order named can show the cleanest divisions.

The Scouts are going to be busier than bees this week and of course they're going to depend on you to help them out—from one end of the city to the other. They're sort of consulting engineers in the movement; they'll tell you how it's done and how to do it and all you have to do is to lend them your ears and tidy up.

When the rubbish is collected a wagon will call and haul it away free.

Spotless Town—that will be Port Arthur when clean-up week is over, Lions and Scouts hope.

CITY CLOSES FISCAL YEAR

Financial Report Delayed For Fortnight

MUST BORROW FUNDS

Even Transfer of Emergency Fund Leaves Deficit

The city closes its financial affairs for the fiscal year from April, 1935, to March 31, 1936, at midnight tonight.

Condition of the city's finances cannot be determined for several days yet due to the large amount of clerical work necessary to close the books.

Report on the financial condition will not be completed until about April 12, officials at the city hall estimated today.

Another Pay Day Due

One pay day for the fiscal year just closing must be met by the city April 5, for the last half of March.

There is no estimate available yet as to the amount required. Now his present spouse Mrs. Vivian L. Estabrook, blue-eyed, blond former show girl, is doing it. She charges he poured acid on fine clothes he had worn her. They were married last Christmas.

$72,000 TAX CONTRACT VOID

County Commissioners Rescind Recent Act

HUGHES BLOCKS PLAN

Port Arthur Official Votes Against Deal

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 31.—Commissioners court during their session this morning rescinded the proposed contract they had made with the R. B. DeWitt company for reblocking the county for assessment purposes at a cost of $72,000.

The resolution to cancel the contract was made by Commissioner J. E. McDonald and seconded by Commissioner Charles Hughes.

Following this, a second resolution was offered by Commissioner W. O. Turner providing that representatives of the DeWitt company be asked to come before the court next Monday morning for further discussion of the proposition.

Least week members of the commissioners' court signed a tentative contract for reblocking the county for assessment purposes at a cost of $72,000.

Scores of protests were received from taxpayers against the proposition. It was only after a stormy session that the action this morning was taken. A number of interested people were in the court room; led by Representative B. E. Quinn, who urged the court to rescind their contract. There were some delays, and it was at first suggested that the proposition be left open until Wednesday.

Commissioner Charles Hughes stated he could not be present Wednesday and finally the commissioners agreed to act on the proposition this morning.

CHARGED WITH FUNDS' MISUSE

Neglect of Official Duties Alleged

OTHER OFFICIALS HELD

Grand Jury in Searching Investigations

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 31.—Bond in the amount of $2,000 was set for justice of the peace Thomas Brown here Monday morning and $1,000 for H. H. Reeves.

Brown was indicted by the 60th district court grand jury on four counts, three for willful neglect of duty and one for misapplication of public funds.

Neglect is charged.

The charges grew out of alleged practices in the justice courts when the officials are said to have allowed persons they had fined to go free. According to the statutes they should either "pay up or go to jail" and freeing prisoners after they had been fined is alleged to be "willful neglect of official duty."

Brown is charged with letting three persons and then allowing them to go free until they could pay the fine instead of turning them over to the sheriff. He is also charged with having appropriated $720, the amount of which should have been turned over to the county.

When W. E. Jones was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of bribery several weeks ago, the name of Judge Thomas Brown appeared as a witness. Jones, retaliated and the name of Jones appears on all the indictments against the justice of the peace. Reeves is charged with having appropriated $23 at one time and $5 at another.

Indictments Expected.

The indictments have been expected. When Judge E. A. McDowell charged his grand jury, he referred them to these practices and asked them to investigate. Both the county treasurer and county auditor were called before the grand jury during the past week and all county records were brought up for their inspection.

H. D. Morse, former constable was also indicted on two charges of theft by false pretext. Morse now lives in Port Arthur, and was formerly connected with the local office.

Another constable, C. A. Koblet was also indicted on three charges of theft by conversion.

Two other deputy constables charged with robbery, Les Howell and C. C. Hickman are held in the county jail, also R. G. Foster, alleged to have been with the two men. Bond has been set at $1,000 which they have been unable to make.

British Plane Down On Corfu Island

By United Press.

ATHENS, March 31.—The British round the world flight plane was down today after a forced landing, in Lake Saint Matthew on the island of Corfu.

Major Stewart McLaren, the flight commander, was understood to be rushing minor repairs to the big Amphibian Napier-Vickers machine in the hopes of being able to proceed to Athens. The plane was flying from Rome to the Greek capital when it was forced down while over Corfu.

McAlbert Begins His Second Week In Port Arthur

McAlbert, "the miracle man," began his second week in Port Arthur today by receiving several hundred letters through the mail and in care of The News office, despite the fact that hundreds of others had been received and answered during the first week of his stay here.

Tonight and each night this week McAlbert will give demonstrations of his occult powers and deliver his food pictures at the Alhambra as a benefit for the Young Men's Business League in an effort to eliminate the baseball deficit of the league.

Here are his answers today:

Mrs. C. D. R.—The money was taken out of the pocketbook.

S. S. C.—I did not see much work for you just now but later on you will.

A. C.—Your business will be very good.

S. C.—Just do the best you can and it will be all right.

Mrs. H. P. L. P.—No use to be separated. I see a chance for both of you.

Mrs. A. M. G.—The wrong combination of food is your trouble.

Mrs. L. P.—You will get better with proper care.

Mrs. E. D.—I would advise you to see your doctor and take care of your health.

Mrs. J. P.—I would hold the lot for a while.

Mrs. W. R.—I would be contented if I were your husband with my job.

J. E. B.—Some time you will hear from him.

Mrs. G. W. B.—I do not see your husband changing his position now.

Mrs. J. P.—This cannot be arranged through the press. See me at (Turn to Page 2, Column 1.)

GRAND JURY MEETS

Take First Steps Toward Indicting Sinclair

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Harry F. Sinclair was indicted today by the federal grand jury on a charge of contempt of the senate.

Sinclair refused to answer the questions on the ground that the committee—or any congressional committee—was without constitutional authority to compel a man to divulge his private affairs.

BY PAUL R. MALLON

United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—While the federal grand jury here today prepared to act on a contempt indictment against Harry F. Sinclair, a drive was opened in the senate to oust Col. Theodore Roosevelt, as assistant secretary of the navy, for his part in the oil scandal.

Sinclair, D. C. Washington, democrat, introduced a resolution asking it to be the sense of the senate that President Coolidge should request Roosevelt's resignation.

The resolution charges that Roosevelt, who was associated with the Sinclair oil companies before his connection with the navy department. It also states that Roosevelt carried the draft of the executive order to the White House, which was signed by President Coolidge, permitting the leasing of naval oil reserve land and that he participated in sending armed marines to Teapot Dome to protect the Sinclair lease.

DAUGHERTY GOES BACK TO CAPITAL

By United Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., N. J., March 31.—Harold D. Daugherty, attorney general, is returning to Washington this afternoon. Daugherty refused to say what caused his decision. He had intended going to Miami.

"I have no personal feeling against the president, I am just his dependable friend and supporter."

This statement is Daugherty's announcement to the "American people" following his resignation as attorney general. He had permitted the proof that the former cabinet member has no intention of withdrawing his name as delegate at large to the republican convention from Ohio, instructed for President Coolidge.

ARRANGE LABOR PROGRAM HERE

Meeting Sunday Discusses Convention Plans

Preliminary arrangements for entertainment of 1,000 delegates and visitors to Port Arthur for the four state conventions here next month were completed at yesterday's meeting of the committee working out these plans.

Sunday afternoon's meeting was held in the Labor Forum offices when entertainment for the first four days of convention week was planned.

Monday night the delegates and visitors will be tendered a theatre party at one of the local houses. Tuesday afternoon an automobile sightseeing trip will be arranged to the docks and the refineries. Wednesday afternoon a fish fry will be arranged. Thursday night of convention week will see the climax of the entertainment in a ball to be held at a place to be designated later.

Entertainment of the visiting delegates for Friday night will not be planned until convention week in order to allow the delegates to have a night in finding the amusement.

FIVE DROWNED

Maryland Flood Does $3,000,000 Damage

BALTIMORE, Md., March 31.—Five persons, all members of one family, have been drowned and property valued at millions of dollars has been damaged or destroyed by the floods of the Potomac River in Western Maryland, which have driven hundreds of persons from their homes since the water began to rise early Saturday.

Damage estimated at $3,000,000 was done in Cumberland, Md. The waters began to recede there yesterday.

MURDER, SUICIDE ARE CHARGED TO ARTIST

By United Press.

CHICAGO, March 31.—Accepting the theory that Edmund J. Sedlack, commercial artist, shot and killed his wife and then ended his own life with the same revolver, police of Elmhurst, a suburb, announced today no further investigation of the double killing would be made.

Sedlack and his wife were found dead in their bed early Sunday by Dorothy, their 11-year-old daughter.

Friends of the family said Sedlack was despondent because of failing eyesight.

NORTHWESTERN OUSTS PACIFISTS

Action Follows Signing of Student Pact

By United Press.

CHICAGO, March 31.—A movement to oust the "Pacifists" from the student body of Northwestern University was under way today.

The movement was initiated by world war veterans following a patriotic mass meeting at which President Walter Dill Scott placed the university on record against the activities of pacifist students.

President Coolidge sent a telegram of commendation for the officials who promoted the meeting, stating that "the flag as the symbol of your best and deepest national sentiment, must always be assured the respect and devotion of whoever presumes to be worthy of the privilege of American citizenship."

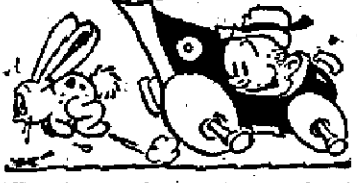

The question has been agitating the entire student body and Methodist Episcopal church officials since a large number of theological students at the university pledged themselves to refrain from taking up arms in any cause.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Vladimir Bokitch bet his friend he could drink a gallon of blackberry wine. The ambulance arrived only a few moments after the bet was paid him.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Having a day off, Victoria Markham, telephone switchboard operator, made a successful debut as a triple soprano.

The lucky officer has made the rounds of the several agencies on Automobile Row in this city, in an effort to swap his machine, but up to press time no antique collector had made a bid on his Hiccough Three.

All the up-to-date automobiles are on the car, including an Xmas Seal motor and non-skid wheels. Harry Starns says the wheels are not only non-skid but also non-roll.

Chief Corington has offered to buy Berwick a set of four-wheel brakes, but only on the condition the car can travel a block under its own steam.

The car, according to police officers, is introducing the latest thing in body paint—the Sunlight—being a cross between a maroon green and a brindle pink. One of the wheels are in fair shape, the rubber being of first-class quality, but somewhat short on quantity. Estimates place the shortage of quantity at 75,000 miles.

"Yant's" Brizendine says the car has timken bearings. Timken tell, and only time will tell, says "Bick."

Judge A. W. Fyres this morning offered to sell Berwick his car for $300, and offered to swap his machine for Berwick's and $350 to boot.

Local Pastor Finds Port Arthur Men Really Have Interest In Their Own Wives

IDEAL HUSBAND CHARACTERIZED

Honeymoon Should Last 30 Years, He Says

"Some husbands' minds are dumping grounds for the filthiest trash; the ideal husband will pay a great deal more attention to his own wife than he does to some other man's wife."

"He won't look up his pocketbook and throw away the key; he won't grumble about his wife's cooking; he will not say goodbye forever to the barber, the manicurist, the druggist nor the floral shop, but he'll like to 'doll up' and hold his sweetheart's hands, 10, 20 or 30 years after marriage, just as he used to 10, 20 or 30 weeks before. His honeymoon will last a long, long time."

Interested in husbands.

Thus Rev. R. R. Yelderman, minister of the First Christian church, apprised the characteristics of "The Ideal Husband," in a sermon delivered to a crowded church-house Sunday evening. During his remarks on the fourth chapter of Proverbs, first verse, which reads: "Hear my son the instructions of thy father and attend to know understanding," and the seventh chapter of First Corinthians, third verse, which asserts: "Let the husband reader unto the wife as her body, and likewise the wife unto the husband."

"I never knew before I began this series of lectures," Dr. Yelderman remarked in the inception of his sermon, "that husbands were so interested in wives, nor that wives in Port Arthur were so interested in husbands."

"Life is a quest for happiness; we're all hunting it. No long ago men rushed to the Klondike in a great gold hunt—but the underlying chord that sounded in their hearts was the unmet quest for happiness."

"There are two great enemies of happiness: they are 'fear' and 'suspicion.' What fire is to the newly built house, what the thief is to the bank, and more are fear and suspicion to happiness."

The minister lamented the fact that a book of "Forty Thousand Beautiful Quotations" only even refer to husbands and but 14 speak of fathers.

"And of the seven," he remarked, "not one did I consider worth quoting to you; while of the 14, 13 were useless to me. I shall read you that lone quotation of the 14 on fathers. It is from Shakespeare. To you, your father should be a god."

Four Partnerships

To be an ideal husband, Rev. Yelderman declared, the husband "now or old," must form four strong alliances or partnerships.

"He will make first of all," the minister outlined, "a partner of himself. Some men are good to everybody else in this world but themselves. I knew a man in Tennessee once who was good to his cows; he scrubbed them, combed their hair, and treated them with the utmost consideration. It was to wonder that they gave valuable milk in return. But that same man was not good to his body and his life was a physical wreck."

"Some husbands' minds are dumping grounds for the filthiest trash. The ideal husband will be good to his mind, good to his soul and better to his wife."

"He will form a partnership with his wife. He will consider her a partner in his joys, his business, his victories and his failures. One of the biggest mistakes married men make is keeping too many things to themselves; they fail in that they neglect to take their wives into their confidence."

Partnership With Children

"The ideal husband will form a partnership with his children; he helps to mould the future of his son; he is the great example the leader to his children. If he fishes on Sunday, he can't object to his son playing ball the same day."

"The ideal husband will form a partnership with God. No man can be an ideal husband if he loves God and Jesus Christ out of his life."

Harry K. Thaw and Edgar Allan Poe were cited as great examples of "men with marvelous minds who tried the road to hell because they neglected God and left Jesus Christ out of their lives." But the minister depicted the "black December" in Poe's famous poem, "The Raven," as the last lingering days of a "life grown old and at the finish of a career all too soon because God and Jesus Christ were left out by Poe."

During his sermon, letters from several men and women, "all of whom were present and some of whom had brought their husbands along," were read to his auditors on the "Ideal Husband," and Dr. Yelderman announced he will preach Sunday evening on "The Ideal Home," welcoming communications from Port Arthur men and women on this subject.

A quartet from Beaumont, a soprano solo rendered by Mrs. W. C. Spurling and a tenor solo by R. B. Deck, both of Beaumont, opened the evening's services. The soloists and quartet were accompanied by Mrs. Fred Pate of Beaumont.

The crowd attending Dr. Yelderman's services has grown to such capacity that they now overflow the church, and the partition between the Sunday school room and the church auditorium has been removed during the past week to make additional space, which last night was more than occupied.

Fund Transferred

Recently city council passed a resolution transferring a little over $10,000 in the contingent fund to the general fund because of a rainfall emergency declared to have existed in 1935.

Even with this amount credited to the general fund the fund will show an over expenditure.

Though a part of the $10,000 contingent fund transferred to the general fund went to meeting items of current expense, a considerable aggregate of current bills accumulated since December 31 remain to be paid.

Must Float Loan

The budget election for the fiscal year of April 1, 1936, to March 31, 1937, will be held the third Tuesday in March, as provided by the city charter.

Due to the gap of approximately three months between the close of the fiscal year and the voting of the budget, until which appropriations are not available for new year expense, the city is compelled to float a loan against the anticipated budget. When the budget is voted the amount is repaid at the following tax paying period.

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 31.—Judge George C. O'Brien called a number of cases for setting here Monday morning in 58th district court. He stated to all attorneys present that if they did not answer to cases called, he would dismiss them. A few were set and a judge from some other district will need to try some since Judge O'Brien is disqualified.

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS WILL STAGE MARCH SPECIAL

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 31.—Headed by two brass bands, the Men's class of the First Christian church will march for the court house through the business district and on to the church next Sunday morning.

The Texas high school football team will take part in the parade as well as the Elks' ball team. Members of the class expect to have 500 men in the parade.

PORT ARTHUR TITLE TO LAND DISPUTED

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 31.—Suit to clear title was filed by C. M. Dismukes of Port Arthur against C. W. Langerin by attorneys Wetner and White in 58th district court this morning. The suit involves property in the city of Port Arthur.

BRITISH TANKER IN QUARANTINE AT SABINE

The British tanker, Solent, arriving from English port, was in quarantine at Sabine until early this afternoon when the fumigation was completed and the vessel proceeded to the Magnolia company's terminals at Beaumont, according to word received by Sydney C. Collin company, agents for the vessel.

TWO-MASTED SHIP HERE AFTER COTTON

The small two-masted schooner, Lady Antiochette, is lying at the cotton docks awaiting cargo. It was reported in shipping circles here today.

The Lady Antiochette has a net registered tonnage of 89 tons, and is under British registry. She has six engines, and made the voyage from the island of Grand Cayman to Port Arthur in six days.

Weather Man Gets His Signals Crossed

Just when the old straw hat was beginning to assume a familiar appearance on the Elkhito the weather man got his signals crossed and pulled the wrong string.

Result—"Cool" wave approaching. For tonight temperature of 36 to 42 degrees. Protect plants.

And just when the sulphur and molasses brigade were getting in some good licks!

WEST DEMANDS APPOINTMENT

Protest New Englander As Attorney General

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Demand from senators that a progressive westerner be named attorney general to succeed Harry M. Daugherty may delay filling the post.

Suggestion of Judge A. P. Rugg, of Massachusetts, governor of Michigan, in the senate on the grounds that Rugg is "another New Englander."

Kenyon Pushed Forward

The president has been urged to invite Judge William S. Kenyon of Iowa to take the place. Kenyon, a thorough going progressive, would make an exceedingly popular attorney general so far as the midwestern and far west are concerned. He would accept the post, also as he regards it as an opportunity for real service. Justice Brandeis of the supreme court also has been suggested.

Others Mentioned

In addition those mentioned prominently include Harlan Fiske Stone, dean of Columbia University school of law, New York; Nathan Miller, former governor of New York; Alexander Groves, governor of Michigan; Frederick Evans Crane of Brooklyn, judge of the court of appeals of New York.

It has been learned indefinitely that Secretary of State Hughes will not be the next attorney general. Senator Borah also does not expect the president to offer the post to him.

STEAMSHIP SUSPECTED DUE HERE MONDAY

Arrival of the Transmarine corporation steamship Suspecto in Port Arthur is expected early Tuesday, according to advices received here today by James L. Boyd, southern manager of the corporation. The Suspecto now loading at the coastwise docks is expected to complete and sail for Port Newark Wednesday noon.

FLIES UPSIDE DOWN

Clyde Pangborn, jailed by a victor as "king of the upside down fliers," exhibited something Port Arthurians hadn't seen before when he turned his plane over, bottom pointing to ward the heavens, and flew several hundred yards. The feat, with oil running out of the tank and considerable strain on the arrangements of all airplane not constructed in the first place to ride upside-down, is a very dangerous stunt, and Pangborn is one of the few fliers in this country executing it.

"Loop King" Brooks featured the program with his queer, vine-covered, tumbling turns filling fliers' loop-the-loops. His four engine winged out perfectly, and he got a round-hand when he cut his motor off and went into a series of stunts.

The fliers were scheduled to leave Port Arthur this afternoon, going to Lafayette, La., where a similar program, including possible "fly-by-night" fire tricks will be presented.

1,500 WITNESS FLYING CIRCUS

While an amazed crowd of some 1,500 spectators looked on, "Diavolo" Girton, ace of aces when it comes to stunts and tricks with an airplane, stood on his head out on the far wing of an airplane on El Vista road Sunday afternoon and gave Port Arthur a live-wire thrill as his plane shot through space.

And that was just the beginning of "Diavolo's" series of exhibitions that kept the crowd of spectators gasping and shouting approval while a two-hour program conducted by the Gates Flying Circus presented aerial entertainment under the auspices of the local Elks lodge, the proceeds of which circus went to the Elks' charity fund.

Everything and Then Some

"They did everything they advertised they would do and just a little bit more," more than one spectator declared as he left the field.

Long before 1 o'clock a train of automobiles had started to trek out Savannah avenue to the exhibition field some 3 1/2 miles from the city, led by 2:30, the large tractor of land directly south of the exhibition grounds had been covered with automobiles. It was variously estimated that between six and seven hundred autos filled with people lined the parking ground.

It was variously estimated that between six and seven hundred autos filled with people lined the parking ground.

"Diavolo's" stunts and death defying tricks were by far the best that have been seen in this section. Many who saw the program presented in Beaumont declared "Diavolo" was better in Port Arthur than when they had first seen him.

He Defies Death

The daredevil was not content with just standing on his head, upside down, as it were, while his plane shot through the air; he had to stand out as far as the law of gravity would permit him and let the driver turn loops and do a few other tricks with him. He recalled the "ars of 'daredevil' El Larete famous pile and steeper who shot through space thousands of feet in 1922 at Wichita Falls, to an instant death when his parachute failed to respond to action.

"Diavolo" executed most of his stunts with his plane flying low—so low at times that the spectators ascribed in many instances they could see his face, and it is fact alone indicates the nerve of the flier, for the low altitude of the plane made his feat much more dangerous and harder to accomplish. The stunter hung by one hand from the bottom wing of the plane as it stunted, and hung by his knees as well.

Commission Enters Contract With Dryden

The city commission, meeting in regular session this morning, passed a resolution authorizing a contract with George L. Dryden calling for the installation of water lines to Dryden's Place at the end of North Prector street.

The lines will be installed by the city at once. Dryden to reimburse the city for expenditures incurred as the mains are laid down. Later, as the mains are laid down, the city will pay the city for the cost of the system, the lines will be bought by Port Arthur and made a part of the city's regular water line system.

LIVES HERE 52 YEARS BUT WILL BE DEPORTED
CHICAGO, March 31.—The evil spirits rose from the dust of 52 years today and triumphed over venerable Jim Yen.
Yen is 62. He came to this country at the age of three. For 40 years he has worked in Chicago.
During all that time he never failed his daily offering of Joss sticks, his incantations and prayers to the spirit of his dead father. But the evil spirits finally betrayed him and United States Commissioner James R. Glass ordered Yen deported because he was not registered in accordance with the law.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

They that plow iniquity, and sow wickedness shall reap the same.—Job. 4:8.
He who commits injustice is ever made more wretched than he who suffers it.—Plato.

The Editorial Mind

However,
Odds and Ends and Comments on Our Morning Mail

Every one's talking about the rapid increase in traffic congestion, in Port Arthur and elsewhere, due to tremendous auto production. Any one with reasonably far vision can see the time close at hand when traffic in cities will be congested to snail's pace unless double-decked streets are built.

The other solution would be for airplanes to be made cheap and fool-proof, diverting traffic to the air. This seems the more logical development to expect. Whenever humanity needs anything badly enough, some one comes forward with it. That will be the way with flying flippers.

If Cleopatra's nose had been shorter, the condition of the world would have been different. So wrote Pascal in his Provincial Letters. Her beauty was her one of the most powerful weapons that ever lived.

A small boy in church, watching a chandelier swaying back and forth, conceived the idea of the pendulum.

Neither might have been a lawyer if a terrible rainstorm had not prevented him from keeping an appointment with a friend.

Giotto, one of the early Florentine painters, might have flourished as a shepherd boy if a sheep drawn by him on a stone had not happened to attract the attention of a great artist.

Climacus, who fired Giotto with ambition.

Nearly everybody believes in luck. If they didn't, games of chance like cards would be entirely displaced by games of skill like chess. Ambition is kept alive and nurtured by hope.

And hope is lured on by a belief, whether admitted or denied, that luck will bring opportunity and fortune.

Luck, after all, is simply the popular way of expressing success or failure under the scientific laws of chance or probabilities. These laws are mathematical. Gamblers use them.

But most of us do not accept chance as an satisfactory explanation of such crucial incidents as baby Crammell escaping death at the monkey's hands. Some prefer to believe in fatalism. Others are confident that the guiding hand of Providence is back of it all.

How many different towns have you lived in? How many times have you moved from one house to another? How many miles have you traveled since birth?

Most of us find that, as the years slip by, we travel more, move often and change jobs more frequently.

Gone are the days when son followed in father's footsteps generation after generation, living in the same town, the same old family homestead, generally the same line of work as parent.

There are many indications that we are becoming a race of Gypsies—rovers. It is the natural result of better transportation facilities, especially the automobile.

Twenty years ago a man or woman taking a trip of 1000 miles was the talk of the town. Today one attracts more attention if he doesn't take an occasional long trip if he does. People move from house to house, city to city, job to job, farm to farm.

Covered wagon days are returning—nearly everyone a pioneer, yearning to be somewhere else, doing something different.

One symptom of our Gypsy tendency is the increasing custom of not building for permanence. Houses, used to be built to last forever, if possible. Now they're thrown to the scrap heap in a few years.

Same with auto ownership—the buyer, when he buys, already is looking ahead to the date when he'll "trade in the old car on the new one."

J. W. Forster, head of the Ford Art Museum of Harvard, warns that the paintings of some of our modern artists may not last more than 50 years because of the use of inferior canvas or paint. Excellent materials are on the market for the artist, but often he is careless in buying and using. Bad paint, improperly varnished may fade to a blur instead of lasting centuries like the masterpieces of the old-time painters.

All this is typical of our generation's attitude. "Today's the thing. Let tomorrow take care of itself."

Two definite reasons why we are becoming Gypsy rovers and do not build for permanence. First, we realize more than ever before that life is merely a journey, a training school or gymnasium for self-improvement.

We view life as a Pullman car—and are quite willing to leave peanut hulls and banana peels behind when we get out. Then, too, we build only for permanence in big projects like the Panama Canal, because we are busy creating new ideas, processes and devices—and willing to replace repeatedly the material things expressing these ideas, processes and devices. Women's fashions, for instance, were content to use a horse and buggy and make them last as long as possible. We conceive or build the idea of the auto—and that idea is permanent even if individual autos are not.

General Pershing has been writing a history of the World War. His book, begun during his recent seclusion in France, covers the period between America's plunging into the conflict and the armistice. The book should be what serious-minded people call a "valuable contribution."

The final history of the World War will tell it in a few hundred words. By the year 4000 the war will have become legendary, in the nature of a myth. It is quite likely that some one will have written a history of the war, but it will be a history of the war, not a history of the world.

DR. ELLIOT, GRAND OLD MAN OF HARVARD, REACHES 90TH MILESTONE

Dr. Charles William Elliot, America's grand old man, at ninety finds the world growing better, his confidence in democracy is unshaken, the United States is better governed than when he was a boy but the mystery of matter is as great as ever. He is still expectant of good, not only for his own nation but for all the world. Here are some excerpts from his writings:

We are on the brink of a vast ocean of undiscovered truth. We have had a striking example of this in wireless telegraphy.

Our country needs the labor of every honest and healthy immigrant who has the intelligence and enterprise to come here.

Christ will be the Supreme Teacher. The church of the future will have more reverence for the personality of Jesus. It will prefer liberty to authority. It will see neither deities nor demons in the forces and processes of nature. It will rob death of its terrors. It will dwell on goodness, life and truth. The brotherhood of men will be its outcome.

The briber and the bribed are both lawless but the worse of the two is the briber.

The only way to secure lasting international peace is to establish a league of faith-keeping nations, large and small, all committed to the prevention of war and to the use of their combined forces against any state which commits a breach of peace.

A child should have no part in any machine industry indoors. Never.

The statement in the Declaration of Independence that all men are created equal is manifestly not true in every sense. Neither have all men any unalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

The new religion will not be based upon authority, either spiritual or temporal; the present generation is ready to be led but not driven.

How to live long—Go to church, keep a clean heart and a good conscience. Give your mind exercise as well as your body—really think. Exercise regularly, eat in moderation, take a full allowance of sleep. Avoid indulgence in luxuries and the habitual use of any drug whatsoever, not only of alcohol but of tobacco, tea and coffee.

The first efforts of any community toward the great improvements of their schools which the war has taught the American public to desire must be directed simultaneously to the secondary schools and the normal schools.

It is obvious that standardization has become a dangerous adversary of progress in both education and industry.

"When any one says that the college is becoming the recruiting ground for socialism, he is wrong," thundered the grand old man of America in the not remote past. Having passed his ninety-third mile post, he concludes "that the most notable quality of inheritance is not that evils are transmitted but that the good qualities are often magnified," and he asks this question of the scientists of the world: "What does it matter in a hopeless case if the patient's life is shortened by a few hours or more if he is thereby relieved from excruciating pain?"

Flowers for the living.

A NEW USE FOR FATHER

Florida is the home of William Jennings Bryan. Florida is the home of Dr. Kid Murphree, president of a university and the Bryan candidate for president of the United States.

Florida is the home of Eva Winchester who is only eighteen. Eva and her mother belong to a religious sect which has its habit in Seffner, a civilized village ten miles from Tampa which is said to be a civilized city.

Eva's father was a paralytic. He attended the meetings of the religious sect, accompanied by his wife and his daughter. Father was so much benefitted by attendance that the daughter and her mother decided that they would make him an offering to the Lord for the benefaction so they stamped him to death, stamped him until the life had departed from his body.

And a barbaric sheriff who happened along arrested the daughter and the mother and placed a charge of murder against them. It is evident that they need missionaries in Seffner. It is more than evident that a religious sect that calls for sacrificial offerings is but out of place even in the Everglades of Florida.

It must be a queer kind of religion that they practice down there that calls upon mother and daughter to slay the head of the family in order to make themselves pleasing in the sight of the Lord.

A religious fanatic is a pathetic object deserving the pity of all padded walls for the protection of society, while a political fanatic is just as dangerous to the peace of mind of his fellows and as great a pest as a boll weevil.

However, the Lord sends the pests and they must be here for a some good purpose.

Your Money AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

HE CAN'T RISK THE JUMP

The average man in business for himself should invest in gilt edge bonds rather than stocks.

In most cases where the average man is in business for himself, his investments are really reserves for his business. They were probably accumulated during good times when the money was not needed in the business.

He is likely to need that money when times are hard. When such times come he will want most of that money, not just a small part of it.

Stocks fall swiftly and they will probably be low at the time he will need his money. Gilt edge bonds on the other hand, decline relatively little.

The safety of his business demands that the average man invest in gilt edge bonds.

Here's a reason Frenchmen sometimes forget to be polite: Germany's revenue (taxation and so on) in 1924 was only half as much as in 1921, figured in terms of gold instead of devaluative paper marks. FRUIT JUICES VALUABLE

A barrage of breakfast table questions left Mr. Mann quite stunned as he hesitated to the office.

"Say, what's calcium?" he asked his stenographer.

"Electric lights, of course."

But that didn't seem to fit the situation. So he called on the physical director.

"It's what youngsters need. And, by the way, if you got better acquainted with it you might be worried less about incipient diabetes and acidosis," the director said. "The better known name for it is lime."

"Maybe you have never wondered why orange juice was recommended for breakfast. Fruit juices are rich in calcium."

"Young animals that get insufficient calcium are undernourished and have poor appetites. Sunlight has some peculiar influence upon it, turning it into a form of energy; that's why the light gets its name. Also calcium in the blood is important in maintaining the action of the heart muscle."

"Then, in many severe heart cases, a salt solution is administered. Give the kids lots of calcium early in life and they can deposit it in the walls of the arteries and in the bones. It is great for building up the bones of the body."

Dr. Frank Crane's Editorial

THE HIGH COST OF GOLD

MOST of us complain of the high cost of everything, yet once in a while some item gives us a jolt. It makes us realize that the demands of modern civilized life are becoming rapidly more exorbitant.

Looking decently and comfortably in a hotel that used to cost a traveling man $2 a day now costs him from $10 to $20.

Home expenses have kept pace with the expenses of travel.

And when it comes to luxuries the only expression that can fit the case is the classic American exclamation, "Gee whizz!"

For example, according to the items collected by Dames & Moore, the other day, you could in 1934 have joined the Claremont Country Club of Oakland, California, for $100. Now if you can get in the privilege will cost you $2,200.

"You could," he says, "have joined the San Francisco Golf and Country Club in 1897 for $1,500, a by no means insignificant sum in those days. Today the privilege is held at $3,500."

Three years ago when the Wilshire Country Club of Los Angeles was new, a membership cost $250. Now it costs $1,250.

The Virginia Country Club, of Long Beach, California, started out about the same period with its membership at $100. Now it costs $1,000 to get in this club.

All of which goes to show that so far from being misers, Americans may find it difficult to prove that they are not spendthrifts.

It is the custom in European circles to speak of Americans as "dollar men." Over there they are supposed to be so superior that they care nothing for so sordid a thing as money, but devote their whole mind to art and literature, gambling, romance, socialism, leisure, play, coquetry and pessimism.

Over here we are supposed to be all living on Main Street, all going home to lunch on corned beef and cabbage, all working 23 hours a day like Roman's universal robots, and altogether talking constantly through our nose about how much money we have.

As a matter of fact, Americans care less for money than any race in the world. They get it quickly and spend it more quickly.

Exclusive and high-toned amusements may be at Biarritz or Monte Carlo, they have nothing on us; and if you don't believe it, you can apply for admission to the golf clubs at Oakland, Cal., and points west.

Telling It To CONGRESS

It is one of the duties of the chief executives to protect American lives and American property, but the policy which has obtained for the last 30 or 35 years with reference to Central America has done much further than merely protect the lives and property of Americans. The fact is that we are establishing over the Central American countries the dominion of the United States Government.

MISS ALIAS

BY DOUGLAS GRANT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Sallie Peck, employee of the Fair Deal Five & Ten, quarrels with her policeman sweetheart, Michael Curran. That night Sallie goes into the back yard to take down a washing line or a Eucalyptus, with whom Sallie lives. A crash shatters the earth and something strikes Sallie a blow on the head.

When she regains consciousness, the girl finds herself in strange surroundings, handsomely furnished. A French maid named Therese calls her Mrs. Copeland and Madame Copeland, a richly gowned woman, claims her as her step-daughter.

Sallie is taken to meet Cousin Wheeler who makes a move for Sallie. She resolves to solve the mystery. She discovers that she is being doped and when the nurse gives her a tablet to swallow Sallie holds it in the palm of her hand without placing it in her mouth.

Then she goes to the doctor. "Very good!" the doctor murmured. "She will do nicely until morning."

They went out, closing the door softly, and Sallie fancied that she heard a soft turn in the lock. After an interval she arose and "stood again to the window. Dr. Quarters' car had turned and pulled up under the shadows of the trees on the opposite side of the Avenue but another was just drawing in at the curb. It was a huge roadster and a tall, gaunt figure emerged from it, clad in an ulster which flapped in the strong night wind. The man turned for an instant to speak to the chauffeur and in the rays of the lamp his sharp aquiline profile showed as clearly cut as though on the screen; then he turned and started across the sidewalk directly before the watching girl and his car moved on slowly up the Avenue.

Sallie turned and looked quickly about her. The soft pink battrobe which Miss Tidmarsh had substituted for her tea-gown lay over the foot of the chaise longue with a pair of silk slippers tucked behind it. The floor and the walls were so dark that though it was conspicuously light for there were plenty of strong mirrors in the drawer of the dressing table. Five minutes of patient, cautious twisting in the lock brought a reassuring click to her ears as the key turned back and in another moment she was in the hall with the door closed behind her.

Rich, subdued lights glowed from side brackets and up from the wall of the staircase but the house was silent.

Wrapping her robe more tightly about her she went to the rad and peered upward and then below but no one was visible and while she paused a deep knock came from somewhere in the house boomed out twelve solemn strokes.

Sallie slipped forward and descended like a silent little pink streak to the floor below. Here the hall widened and several closed doors faced her but although she listened at each to form that she heard them open.

The second flight was broader and curved outward, the huge, bronze lamp on the wall post sent warm rays into every corner of the spacious entrance hall and as the girl crept downward she heard at last the subdued rumble of masculine voices from behind a door which she saw to be on the opposite side of the house.

Sallie advanced toward it step by step and bent to peer through the keyhole. The stranger with the sharp, aquiline features was seated at a huge table almost facing her with some papers spread out before him. He was looking at a clock on the wall and his chair, Mrs. Copeland's gray sleeve and heavily ringed hand came within the girl's range of vision beside him, while the back of Dr. Quarters' sleek head was before her and a shadow which moved restlessly up and down indicated that Wheeler Sloan was pacing the floor.

"The variable of voice went on but not a distinct word reached her ears and in exasperation Sallie strained and made for the next door toward the rear. The knob turned beneath her hand and she found herself in a dining room. She gave a start at a glimpse at the massive furniture and great crystal chandelier, but turned anxiously toward the wall at her right on the farther side of which that conference was taking place. Curtains hung over an arched entrance-way and drawing them noiselessly Sallie discovered a pair of folding doors.

She listened once more but only that maddening monotone of voices reached her and in desperation she pressed against the doors and pushed them apart for the barest fraction of an inch, then let the draperies fall in place behind her

Three Weddings Mark Coming of Spring At Trinity Lutheran Church

IN THE spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love.

This old adage certainly proved true among the young men of the Trinity Lutheran church last week, three weddings having taken place during the week at the church, and always seems partial to spring, and young people are always susceptible to his darts.

The first wedding to take place last week at the church was that of Miss Erna Volkner and Hermann Straus, which was solemnized Tuesday evening.

On Thursday evening, Miss Lillian McGilgibbons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. McGilgibbons, of 2323 Fifteenth street, became the bride of Eric Casper, with service read by Rev. F. W. Seibitz.

The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of friends and relatives of the young couple. A lovely program of music preceded the ceremony. The bride was attractive in a charming bridal costume of beautiful white tulle, and her slim figure was adorned with a band of orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of exquisite white carnations. She was attended by Miss Ruby McGilgibbons and Mr. Odum served as best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony, and dainty refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Casper left during the evening for Thorndale for a short visit with the groom's relatives and following their return will make their home at 2323 Fifteenth street.

The third wedding, which is of unusual interest, took place Saturday evening at 6 o'clock when Miss Lillian Moerbe and Mr. J. R. Caldwell were united in marriage, with Rev. Seibitz performing the impressive ceremony. The presence of a large assembly of friends and relatives of the young couple.

The wedding music was given by Henry Wittershaus, Lohengrin's wedding march, announcing the entrance of the bride.

The bride's gown of lustrous white satin and lace was very becoming, and she wore a lovely bridal veil caught with a spray of orange blossoms. Her beautiful bouquet was fashioned of fragrant white blossoms.

Miss Lillian Crawford and Laura Moerbe, who served as bridesmaids, wore charming frocks of white crepe and carried arm clusters of white blossoms. Sam Caldwell and Ernest Lehman, who acted as groomsmen, wore white trousers and blue serge coats.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Moerbe, 645 Fifth avenue, after the ceremony, and delicious refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell, after a short honeymoon, will make their home in Port Arthur.

MELODY MART REVUE

The Melody Mart Revue, with a cast of fifteen persons, is appearing at the Elks theater this week. The presentation for tonight and tomorrow night is "Over the Garden Wall." Last night's performance was exceptionally pleasing and formed an evening of delightful entertainment for a large audience. Comedy Quartet was heartily received by the audience, and Emma Nelson, the "silver-voiced soubrette," and Lillian Benz, the blues singer, scored a decided hit. Another entertaining feature of the Melody Mart Revue is the Hukum Jazz Band, which gave several of the latest jazz numbers. The costumes of the chorus and the settings are unusually attractive. Plenty of specialties are interspersed throughout the evening.

A complete change of program will be offered Wednesday night.

THE SPLENDID LIE

Arrow Film Corporation, in presenting the second of the Big Grace Davidson productions, "The Splendid Lie," at the Liberty theater today, is convinced that it is offering to the public one of the completest and most beautiful pictures ever screened.

Miss Davidson goes from success to success. "The Splendid Lie" is interesting, and human story and it was written especially for Miss Davidson. In the picture she is a beautiful girl unjustly suspected of indiscreet conduct, unbecoming to a lady married man posing as unmarried falls in love with her and the girl neglects the simple precaution of finding out just exactly who the gay adventurer was. Of course she ought to be lectured for her impudence in love.

I sat up very straight, and winked very hard, and as my eyelids closed down I felt as though hot irons were searing into my brain. It is a strange thing, little Marquise, but honestly I had never dreamed that any scandal about little Jack could attach itself to John.

I expect that all the town is talking about us and saying that I have been deceived into adopting John's child. I wonder if I can go on with it.

As I sat beside John I could not speak, for I knew that John was telling the truth. I knew that in my subconsciousness I had had a suspicion all the time the baby belonged to my husband, although consciously I would never own it even to myself.

"Did you know that Paula Perier was going to leave her baby outside your door, Jack?"

"Of course I didn't know it, dear. Much as you needed the help at that time, for you know the doctor had said that unless we could supply a baby to take the place of the one you lost from the accident, he would not be responsible for your reason or your life—I would not have been so craven as that, dear. Surely you must not think that I could conspire with Paula to force my own child upon you without your consent."

"Did you love her, Jack?"

"I don't know, dear. I didn't love her as I love you. She is beautiful and clever, and amusing. We were together almost all the time for a little while. I think she loved me very much. But I swear to you, Leslie, that I have never seen her speak to her since you and I were married. The moment I saw you, Leslie, I knew you were the only woman in the world for me, and I have been absolutely true to you since the moment I saw you. Do you remember it, darling—it was at the Robertsons' party."

"Well, do I remember it, little Marquise. I know I asked myself when I got home at night, why it was that, out of all the men that I met at that party, I singled out Jack. He seemed to be the only one that I could remember distinctly. When I thought of him my heart beat a little faster."

"It was a whirlwind courtship. I was married to Jack almost before I knew it."

"As I thought of my wedding, much that had been mysterious about John's visit to Albany was explained. As though he had read my thoughts John continued:

"I want back, supposedly on business, just before our wedding. I went because Paula had a bundle of letters I had written her when I thought I was passionately in love with her, and as I was closing the book I wanted those letters back."

"Did you get them?"

"Not at that time, but I got them later."

"What did you do with them?"

"I burned them immediately." (Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

A Coach and Four

One rainy afternoon when Sonny didn't seem to know what to do with himself, I took some old cotton cloth, tore it into two-inch strips and sewed these together end to end. As I worked I told him a story about old-time stage coaches driving over mountains and through forests. Then I gave him the improvised "reins," and placed some dining room chairs in a row and set him, with his lively imagination, to driving a coach of his own. He had a great time the rest of the afternoon.

May Practice at Home as Well as Studio, is Claim

HOLLYWOOD, March 31.—"The boy or girl determined upon a movie career may practice for pictures just as effectively at home as in Hollywood."

This declaration by Hal Roach, prominent producer, may exasperate some youngsters who have all but persuaded reluctant parents to finance a trip to the mecca of romance. On the other hand, it may encourage those who seek sound advice in preparing for the precarious venture.

"A girl's mirror is her best tutor for screen acting," says Roach. "And making faces at herself is the best possible schooling."

"Let the girl who is sure her ambition is rooted in something deeper than a whim or excited vanity put in hours before the looking glass, getting acquainted with her features and their capacity for expressing every possible shade of emotion."

"The face that has screen destiny must learn to see itself reflecting ugly passions as well as tranquil beauty. Vanity which prevents this is a bad handicap."

Start by Imitating

"Good practice is carefully to observe some screen performance to which the movie novice feels by type and temperament adapted. Then, standing with back to a full-length mirror and assuming the facial expression and bodily attitude in some vividly recalled scene, suddenly to face the glass and see how well the pose has been simulated. It should be done again and again."

"Comparatively few people are naturally endowed to animate emotions by the facial muscles. But to the actor this is a primary essential. Training will relieve the facial stiffness."

"I have seen Harold Lloyd smile before the looking glass and when Bebe Daniels does it. Most actors and actresses do. The mirror doesn't flatter. Let the novice go to it for instruction and honest verdict."

Roach is recognized in Hollywood as a shrewd judge of raw movie talent. He selected and started Bebe Daniels, Mildred Davis (Mrs. Lloyd), Johnny Britton, Harold Lloyd's present leading lady, and a dozen other successful ones on their way. Latest is Blanche Mahaffey, picked from Ziegfeld's Follies. His advice has the value of the expert's.

Subsidiary Photos

"Many girls after they get to Hollywood don't know how to present themselves," he says. "I am convinced that many a potential star has been lost to the screen for this reason."

"Few applicants get a hearing or a viewing at the studio unless they have good photographs of themselves, preferably a choice showing different angles and a suggestion of roles that may convincingly be assumed. For it is photos rather than personal appearance that determine screenability. And, of course, movie test stars always finally confirm eligibility."

"Photos, the best one can afford, are an important investment for the novice. They are her advertisement, essential in marketing her talents."

DREDGE WORKS IN MID-CANAL

Tugboats Warned to Use Care in Passing

Warning to tug boats and other craft plying the ship canal at night that the dredge Texas will swing out into the middle of the channel at the Texas company island tonight and remain there until sunrise Tuesday, was issued today by S. W. Clark, U. S. engineer in charge of the Sabine district.

The dredge will not block the ship canal, but care should be taken by tugboats in passing the dredge, the engineer said. The Texas will shift out into the canal at sundown today and remain there until sunrise Tuesday, Clark said.

Since starting operations in the ship canal at the Texas company terminals late Thursday, the dredge has progressed about 800 feet toward Sabine, digging the ship channel to a depth of 30 feet with a bottom width of 125 feet. It is reported here. This is the first part of the Sabine-Neches deepening and widening project to get underway, and is known as Section No. 2 Contract for this part of the work awarded to the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific Dredging company.

EXPLORERS LED ON BY LEGEND

Jewels, Gold and Relics in Countless Mass

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31.—A treasure-laden city older than the tomb of Tutankhamen—Jewels, gold, relics in countless mass.

This is the dream which next month will start a band of world-adventurers into the treacherous jungles of Mexico on their quest of Bacis, fabled city of the ancient Aztec.

Leading them is General Melville Burton, engineer by profession and soldier of fortune by inclination.

Men with whom and against whom he has fought; men who speak as familiarly of cannibals, unheard of places as others do of New York or Philadelphia; men who have made and unmade presidents and emperors; these are the recruits flocking to the general's standard.

High up in Mountains

Sure, there will be difficulties, Burton says.

But where's the fun if there aren't difficulties? "We have our plans pretty well mapped out, and all we will have to do is stick to them."

"Many people think Bacis is only a legend. But I know differently."

"The Indians, many of them half barbarous, have guarded the secret faithfully. Even the Spaniards, with all their power to make conquered people disclose, couldn't get the secret of the Aztec city."

"Yet a few white men have seen it. Not many, for it's a rocky and often hostile country you have to pass through to get there."

"The ones who have, describe it as a city on a high cliff up in the fastnesses of the Sierra Madre Mountains."

"A little stream runs through it, and down into the Indian settlements below."

Co-Operative Affair

"Down this occasionally floats handwork intricately carved, remnants of a civilization old when present civilizations were yet in swaddling clothes."

From previous contact with the Indian tribes, Burton has heard stories which have convinced him Bacis is within 200 miles of Culiacan.

The expedition will make its headquarters there, working out into the surrounding country.

It will be a co-operating affair, each member sharing the expense.

"Prize money" will be divided equally if the treasure is unearthed.

Added impetus is lent by the fact the general has already achieved success in treasure hunting.

Fought All Over World

"That was in Peru in 1901," he reminisces. "We discovered the 'Temple of the Sun' on the Moche River."

"We got pottery and other antiques which we sold for $25,000. That meant a return of about 15 to 1 for every dollar we had invested."

The general is the veteran of more than a hundred battles. His field service covers South and Central America like a geography.

He has made and unmade presidents, fought for the emperor of Brazil, narrowly escaping with his life when the imperial army met defeat, and aided Goma in Cuba, and served all over the eastern hemisphere during the world war.

Brazil, Chile, Venezuela, Peru, Colombia, Mexico, Honduras and Nicaragua—all have seen him at the head of troops.

In the interim he fought with the Japanese against the Russians and became military adviser to Madero in the revolt against President Diaz of Mexico.

CHILD KILLED DURING FEUD

Eight Others Wounded in Arkansas Battle

ROOSEVILLE, Ark., March 31.—A child was killed and eight members of the Van Allen and McCaslon families were wounded in the renewal of a feud in Lack Creek Valley near here.

The McCaslon's, firing from their house and the Van Allens, barricaded behind a wagon on the roadway, maintained a constant fire until the last member of both families was wounded.

The difficulty arose over a trial matter. Sam McCaslon, 12, and Ruby Van Allen, 13, quarreled at a school house in the valley when Ruby called Sam's older sister "bad names."

Later as the Van Allen family drove past the McCaslon farm home, someone inside the house opened fire with a shotgun. The Van Allens quickly barricaded themselves behind their wagon and returned the fire. Women and children joined in the warfare, handling firearms with deadly expertness.

Willmoth Van Allen, 3, was killed. The injured, several of whom are not expected to live, include: Mr. and Mrs. Sam McCaslon; Mae McCaslon, 14; Ben McCaslon, 20 and Maxey McCaslon, a child; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Allen and Ruby Van Allen.

AULD LANG SYNE

Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
And never brought to min?
Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
And days o' auld lang syne?

For auld lang syne, my dear,
For auld lang syne,
We'll take a cup o' kindness yet,
For auld lang syne.

We twa hae run about the braes,
And pu'd the gowans fine;
But we've wander'd many a weary foot,
Sin' auld lang syne.

We twa hae paidl'd i' the burn,
From morning sun till dine;
But seas between us braid hae roar'd,
Sin' auld lang syne.

And here's a hand, my trusty fiere,
And gie's a hand o' thine,
And we'll tak a right gude wille waught,
For auld lang syne.

And surely ye'll be your pint-stoup
And surely I'll be mine;
And we'll tak a cup o' kindness yet,
For auld lang syne.

Doheny Sells Tales of Irish Hero to Kansas Folk on Trek Westward

This is the second chapter of "How I made Millions," the life story of John Doheny, millionaire politician, who is a leading figure in the senate oil investigation.

BY Edith Doheny
(Copyright, 1934, for the Port Arthur News)

At sixteen I left home. I had heard of a surveying expedition that was to leave Atchison, Kansas, for a trip into the Indian territory, and I decided to join it.

My mother, of course, was disappointed. She had been hoping that I would study for the priesthood. My father, probably thinking of his own adventurous youth, didn't seem to mind my going. But my brothers jibed me and said that I would be back within a month.

In my extra terms at high school, I had studied "plane surveying," and I felt fairly well prepared to embark on my career. With $100 advanced by my father for expenses, I set out to conquer—if not the world—at least the west.

But I was soon disappointed. Travel was slow. By the time I reached Atchison, the expedition had been gone three weeks!

I have had many disappointments since; but that first one was probably the cruelest. Pretty much down in the mouth, I felt like returning home. But I remembered what my brothers had said. So just to show them I was no quitter, I gritted my teeth, and made up my mind that I would find a job.

The next day was July 4, 1872. It wasn't much of a holiday for me, until I picked up a newspaper and read in it a notice of a New England publishing house advertising for agents to sell a series of three books. Their titles appealed to the Irish in me, for they were: "The Life and Speeches of Daniel O'Connell," "Irish Wit and Humor," "Book of Advice to Irish Girls."

So I applied for the assignment, got it, and cleaned it up in six weeks—in which period I sold these books to every Irish family in Kansas. I averaged about $15 a day in commissions, an almost undreamed of fortune in those days.

But I made the mistake of having the books sent by freight instead of express. By the time they arrived, some of my customers had migrated, others had changed their minds—and I was stuck.

While waiting for the books, I got a job with the city surveyor of Atchison. He had a large gang laring out the northern part of the county. The weather was extremely hot, and the work was hard. Most of the men quit; but two stuck it out. One was Tom Carrigan, who later became famous.

MUCH SHIPPING OVER WEEK-END

Several Foreign Vessels Are Among Those in Port

Seven vessels arriving Sunday and today, and two others expected today are listed in the shipping reports.

Nine sailings Sunday and today were reported, three of the outward bound ships being destined for foreign ports.

The British steamship, Roserio, which has been anchored off the west bank in Port Arthur harbor awaiting a berth at the Texas Company's terminal, is scheduled to shift over to the docks early Tuesday and start loading operations, according to word from Sydney C. Collin company, agents for the Roserio.

Among the arrivals in Port Arthur today was the Royal Italian naval tanker Glove, docked at the Texas Company's terminal early today.

The R. I. N. tanker Urano is now loading out at the Gulf Refining company's terminal today to top off. The Yaba will probably sail late today or early Tuesday, Sydney C. Collin company, agents for the ship said.

Ships expected to arrive today include the British tanker Solen, bound for Beaumont from United Kingdom ports, and the Gulf Refining company's tanker Trinidad, due to reach Sabine bar late this afternoon from Tampico.

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all the advantages of grandmothers' mustard plaster WITHOUT the blister. You just apply it with the fingers. First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then comes a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains

McTigue Says He'll Knock Stribling Cold Tonight, But Old Man Dope Shows Mike Will Do Well to Win At A Saints Sock Kring and Prejean for 10-to-1 Victory

Ole Man Zip Gets Turned Loose As 'Glas' Hits Homer

By BILL ARCHER

Ole Man Zip got turned loose in the second frame of what might have been a good ball game yesterday, and the remnants of the St. Joseph sluggers clouted the offerings of Kring and Prejean to the four corners of the lot for a 10 to 1 victory.

The Elks scored in the ninth frame, when Curt Smith got one of the longest hits of the game to deep left field close to three stations. He scored in a line, and stretched it into run-down play when Minette overthrew Jenkins.

Kring went to the box when the fireworks opened and was pitching perfectly cool until the second round came along. He walked Jenkins, Minette behind the plate when Glasbrenner chose his favored willow and lumbered up for a trial at his offerings.

Unfortunately for Kring, he gave one right down Glasbrenner's alley and "Glas" gave it the merry zip for four stations, scoring Jenkins ahead of him.

And then Skipper Cliff Gunn ranked Kring on the spot.

Prejean, owned by Omaha and still holding out for more pay, took the slab cold.

Pandemonium turns loose. And that's when pandemonium turned loose. Herrera celebrated the change with a triple and scored when Farrington tripled. Farrington scored on a wild pitch that rebounded against the boards in the grandstand.

And Love went to first on a single. Williams was purposely walked. Hopkins singled scoring Love. Jenkins doubled, scoring Williams, and went to second and third on wild pitches. Minette stroled to the initial station on four that looked bad.

Glasbrenner got a healthy hand when he came to bat his second round in the frame, but "Glas" had evidently planned to help get Prejean out of his hole for he socked a high one right in Jordan's glove, retiring the Saints.

And when the smoke had cleared away, the Saints had nicked Prejean for six hits and six runs, while Kring had been touched for one homer and two tallies that gave the boys from Missouri a grand lead of eight runs.

And the Elks didn't have a chance to overcome that.

Affair Gets Listless. From the second stanza on, it got to be a listless affair, and went on the dial of the clock for an hour and 55 minutes before the ninth frame rolled around and called a halt in the slaughter.

Williams and his proteges scored again in the third and sixth, while the Elks never got a man to third base until the ninth inning when Smith tripled. The rally ended short as it had started on flies to right field and shortstop.

Prejean, but for his cold start in the second inning, might have made a different tale of the issue. He struck out seven Saints in the 7-13 frames his toe tickled the rubber, and conducted himself in a graceful manner when he'd warmed up a bit. Kring was doing well, too, when they yanked him.

The exhibition was the last the Saints will play in Port Arthur during their spring training here, and spring training is nearly over. They will probably break camp Friday of this week.

Big O Williams, in the four occasions he guided the destinies of "Scout" Mathes' hold-overs on the canfield in Cosmopolitan Park, made many friends in Port Arthur, and the boys he guided had their favorite rooters in the bleachers and grandstand, too. The gang wishes the whole bunch "bon voyage."

Light-Heavy Champion Meets Georgian Tonight

THE NUT CRACKER

LAKELAND, Fla., March 31.—Mike McTigue, light-heavy champion of the world and Yokosuka, former Georgia high school boy, meet tonight in Newark in a 12-round decision bout for the title.

McTigue is an 8 to 5 favorite in the betting to hold his title and the odds may be increased when the fighters enter the ring.

The champion ought to retain his title because he will have to be knocked out or commit a foul to lose the contest. Stribling is no puncher and it is doubtful that he could land on the clever McTigue if he had a punch.

May Stop Youngster. Although it is a long shot in the betting it is quite possible that McTigue will stop the youngster as the champion is going out to vindicate himself and he will make every effort to win by a knockout.

Several weeks ago in a six-round bout in Buffalo, Jimmy Slattery, almost a novice, had Stribling in a bad way in the last round and almost knocked him out.

The fighters agreed to make 175 pounds at 2 p. m. and neither will have any trouble making weight. It is probable that they will each be a little over the middleweight limit.

Unsuccessful Ending. Last fall the pair met in a contest in Georgia that had an unsatisfactory ending when both fighters claimed the decision. The referee was said to have been forced by the crowd to give the decision to Stribling after he had called McTigue the winner.

Stribling will be supported by a delegation of 300 friends from the south who arrived yesterday on a special train.

Harry Lewis, one of the most competent and experienced officials in the state has been selected as the referee.

Mr. Speaker is also one of the game's most profound students. "What do you think of the weakest?" asked a young Indian pitcher. "Wild pitches," answered the Texan.

Recruit Pitcher, Shaute, Holds Key to Indian Flag Hopes, Says Tris

LAKELAND, Fla., March 31.—Colonel Tris Speaker is counting on the incongruous combination of a tender singer and a thunderbolt—a McCormick and a Thor—to put his Indians back in the hunt for the American League trophy this year.

Then tender singer is Joseph Shaute, a curly, black-haired coal miner from Pennsylvania, whose physical attributes suggest Jack Dempsey; the thunderbolt is a batting attack made up almost exclusively of 300 hitters and established fence demolishers.

Speaker needs one more great pitcher to step in and help the veterans, Uble and Coveleski, carry the burden. The Texan assures you he has that man in Shaute, a young left hander who began to come in mid-winter last year.

Shaute has fine speed and a splendid pitching style. Next to Uble, star of the staff, he should be Speaker's most dependable twister this year.

The two between them should win 40 games. Coveleski grows older and gets no better. Twelve or 15 will be a large number of wins for him.

Speaker's Stab Strength. Speaker has others to back his trio up. Metevier, who has adopted Uble's club form and is a remarkably poised pitcher; Edwards, the tall left hander who still lacks a real fast ball; the ancient Sherry Smith with his baffling balk movement and the usual flock of "promising youngsters."

Aside from his pitching skill note should be made that no finer vocalist has come to the big leagues in years than Shaute. "Somebody a Young I. Callins," is his favorite. It is also Speaker's favorite. "I hope it's the world series voice," he comments.

The Indians led the league in batting last year. They will come close to doing it again this year. Such scientific subtleties as the sacrifice, the bunt and run and the squeeze will have to place in the Indians' scheme of defense. The idea will be to swing from the hip and swing often.

Stephenson, who replaces Wambagans at second, also replaces him in the batting order, hitting after Jamieson, lead-off man, Wambagans, crack batter, was one of the clearest sacrifice hitters in the league this year. Why Speaker had him hitting second.

So Long Mr. Sacrifice! The Indians, however, will not miss Wambagans' genius as a sacrifice hitter because the sacrifice is not to be used. Stephenson is a slashing slugger, whose main and consistent intent is to mutilate the ball with every swing. "Go ahead and mutilate!" will be Speaker's instructions to him.

And Speaker, who follows in the lineup, will swing his menace with a similar purpose. So Joe Sewell, the clean-up hitter, and Burns, the new first baseman, all of whom for years have hit better than 300 against American League pitching.

Now comes the silver-voiced Shaute in relieving a new dirge, "The Base Hit Blues," to be sung at the expense of opposing pitchers.

ACCEPTS CHALLENGE. NEW YORK, March 31.—England has accepted September 10, 11 and 12 as the dates for the international polo cup contests, according to word received by the United States "Polo" association. The matches are to be played at Meadow Brook Club, West Butler.

LEAVE FOR MOBILE. NEW ORLEANS, March 31.—The Tankers broke camp and left for Mobile.

BRUINS AFTER ELKIE SCALPS

Challenge Cliff Gunn's Crew For Sunday Game

The Port Arthur Bears have started roaring.

Yesterday on Lakeshore Drive they got their first practice of the season in an exhibition game with the Heights club, winning over their opponents 2 and 1.

They sound a special challenge to the Port Arthur Elks club, whom they say they can beat "any way they want to play."

This season, the Bears have a strong aggregation. Lusted on their pitching staff are Pete Karnaky, Lang, A. Prejan and Lopez, while Rubba Trow and Townsend, who caught for the 14anders in the City League last year, are handling the mit behind the plate. Iglesias, released recently by the Elks, Johnson, Nesour and Collins make up the infield, while Crow, Dean and Hillard and outfield positions with the Bruins.

Any team wishing to meet the Bruins can schedule games through the sport column of The News.

INDIANS BREAK CAMP. LAKELAND, Fla., March 31.—The Cleveland Indians will break camp Tuesday; will play in Atlanta Wednesday; Thursday in Mobile and go on to New Orleans where they will spend a week before leaving for the north.

FAST DRILLING TODAY. AUGUSTA, Ga., March 31.—After two Sunday Ty Cobb's Tigers are due for a strenuous drill today to prepare them for another exhibition tour starting Wednesday.

ROBINS STILL WORKING. CHARLOTTE, N.C., March 31.—The Robins will not break camp here until Thursday.

Vet Pitchers Must Carry Mack's Team

By NEA Service. MONTGOMERY, March 27.—What will Naylor, tall and sinuous do this year? Naylor is the veteran of the Athletics' squad.

In his early days the bulky Naylor was a speed-pitcher who put everything he had behind every pitch. In recent years he has developed a change of pace and now he is accounted a "smart pitcher." His head does more work than his arm.

Last spring Naylor was the early sensation of the league; he won seven straight games, and was the main motive power behind the Athletics' sensational start, a start which eventually carried Mack's team to within whispering distance of the post-season playoffs.

Then, unfortunately, Naylor lost his knee chasing a fly ball at Shibe Park and was on the shelf for weeks. His knee worried him more or less when he did come back and he was unable to regain his stride.

This spring he reported here with his knee as sound as ever. A full winter's play over Oklahoma golf courses brought it around in nice shape. Now he is ready for the season of his career. Naylor is 32 years old. If he is ever to be a real star he must start now.

Naylor and Eddie Rummel, the knuckleball king, will form the nucleus of the Athletics' staff. Rummel had a bad year in 1923, losing more games than he won; but with a stronger hitting team he should do better this year. This goes for all the Athletics' pitchers, of course.

The two best looking youngsters are Dennis Burns of Shreveport, a right hander, and Roy Meeker of Gastonia, a left hander. Both came up last fall and worked impressively. Burns won two and lost one; Meeker was unbeaten in three starts.

Fighter Springs the Unusual, Gives Decision to Apponent

Did you ever hear of a pugilist admitting defeat at the conclusion of a battle?

No! Well, Rob "R. O." Sage, Detroit middleweight, did that very thing in his recent bout with Ted Moore, England's sensational scrapper.

The battle took place in Detroit. It was a 10-round no-decision affair. Sage, the idol of Auto City fans, was expected to whip the invader, but he didn't. Instead, Moore made the great Sage look like the proverbial mummy from start to finish.

At the end of the match, Sage stepped over and raised aloft Moore's gloved hand in token of victory.

It was something unique in boxing annals. A whipped fighter acknowledging defeat right in the ring.

And it was the first time in years that an actual "decision" was given in a Detroit arena. It was one for the old scrap-book.

TOO MANY GIRLS TROUBLE PARIS

Excess of 300,000 Women Over Men Shown

PARIS, March 31.—There are 300,000 more women in Paris than men, according to statistics drawn from a careful canvass.

This surplus class is presented chiefly by girls of marriageable age, girls who should have been led into their own home circles by the boys who fell in the war.

How to solve the social problem of these girls and find them husbands in order that the decline in the birth rate might be checked is the question of a committee now being conducted by a section of the press. It has even been suggested that the question be considered by the government as one of vital importance to the welfare of the state.

Little is found for these unhappy young Parisiennes, the social structure must suffer, it is argued. Propaganda encouraging marriage is advised, by means of family dances, popular fairs and outdoor gatherings in the form of picnics, excursions, etc. One suggestion is that the coming season be taken advantage of, on the theory that in the spring a young man's fancy will simplify this problem.

It is recognized that hundreds of young men do not marry because of economic conditions, such as high living costs, taxation and housing difficulties. A movement is advocated to stir these elements into more public-spirited endeavor.

Give the girls a chance, is the appeal, and don't force them into a miserable alternative. Denunciation of this alternative is led by "l'Humanite," a radical daily in an expose of advertising in cheap weekly magazines, by girls who solicit financial help from men by sacrificing themselves.

These advertisements, "l'Humanite" points out, constitute practically the sole source of revenue of a group of rascals.

The majority of the advertisements are so bold that the most sensitive mind would not permit them to be permitted to pass through the mails in the United States.

At the present time, two or three of the leading editors of these weeklies are lined up with the socialists and Communists groups and want seats in the Chamber. "l'Humanite" after quoting a dozen of the advertisements has addressed questions to certain of this sort of thing is encouraged by the left of the House.

The complete suppression of these "love bureaux" is at once advocated for the protection of Parisiennes whose social plight has "robbed them of all reason."

That's all. No headlines, no unnecessary racket, frightened everybody! Just a quiet paragraph, explanatory, interesting. That's the English way.

START FINAL WEEK. ORLANDO, Fla., March 31.—The Reds started their final week of training here with all hands in good shape except Iphig Rixey. The big batter is recovering from an infected left knee, but will be in uniform later in the week.

GIANTS IN ORLANDO. ORLANDO, Fla., March 31.—After completing their spring training at Sarasota the Giants were here today to start a long exhibition series with the Chicago White Sox on the way home.

IN MILWAUKEE. BRADENTOWN, Fla., March 31.—The Cardinals will wind up their southern trip with five games in succession with the Milwaukee Brewers, starting today.

BRVES UNDER WEATHER. ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 31.—The Braves have not recovered from the effects of their strenuous trip to Sarasota last Saturday. Officials of the club said they would arrange no games away from their training camp next spring.

MUD SCRAPER. A simple mud scraper can be provided in the running board by cutting two oval openings in line with the doors. These are covered with pieces of sheet steel about one-eighth inch thick and form the scraper while the openings permit the mud to fall through to the road side instead of accumulating on the running board—Automobile Digest.

The bench of the 60th district court is now occupied by Judge E. A. McDowell, who, even if his health permits, will probably not seek the office again. It was intimated today.

Other than Judge Campbell, no candidates for the office have been announced. He stated here this morning that he would make his formal announcement within a short time. He has lived in Beaumont for the past 21 years, and served as city attorney during the E. J. Diefenbacher mayor administration.

China High School Destroyed by Fire

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, April 1.—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the China high school Monday night. The school caught fire about 5 o'clock, after all pupils and teachers had left the school. There was a fire in the school during the day, but it is not believed the conflagration resulted from a defective flue.

There are about 20 students attending the high school, and they will be sent to the grade school.

It was only after a great effort that the fire was checked and kept from destroying nearby homes.

WILLIAM MEADOR IS GIVEN 10-YEAR TERM
SWEETWATER, Texas, April 1.—William Meador, former youth, was sentenced to 10 years in the state penitentiary by a jury here today for the murder of Ann Rawls.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The present month will show whether Calvin Coolidge will be nominated for president on an early ballot in the republican national convention in Cleveland in June.

Many Primaries This Month
Beginning with the Wisconsin primary today the month will be crowded with primaries and conventions for selections of delegates to that convention. A total of approximately 500 delegates will be selected—more than a majority in the convention.

April is the biggest month in selection of convention delegates. Therefore it has been chosen as the month for sending out a host of Coolidge campaign orators whose function it is to stir up sentiment in their states in behalf of the administration.

Coolidge in Action
President Coolidge himself will get into action when on April 22 he addresses an assembly of editors in New York. That speech is expected to be his most important political utterance to date.

The Wisconsin primary or statewide conference today is of no interest to the Coolidge managers as Wisconsin is conceded to La Follette.

But in New York state today is being held a convention for district delegates, which is considered important. New York will select its delegates at large on April 15.

Connecticut Tomorrow
Tomorrow, Connecticut will hold its convention and the Henry Lincoln Johnson faction in Georgia will meet. Other conventions during the month include Maine, April 3; Washington, April 5; Rhode Island, April 7; Illinois, April 10; (following a primary on April 8); Florida, April 17; Delaware, April 22; Oklahoma, April 23; Arizona, April 28; Missouri, April 29, and the Phillips faction in Georgia on April 30.

In the meantime these states will hold primaries:

Michigan, April 7; Illinois, April 8; Nebraska, April 8; New Jersey, April 22; Pennsylvania, April 22; Massachusetts, April 20, and Ohio, April 20.

In this list are many states which form debatable ground. Pennsylvania's primary, for instance, is expected to show how strong Pinchot is there, with relation to Coolidge.

Ohio, the home of Daugherty and Michigan, the home of Denby will be closely watched to gauge the effect upon the Coolidge fortunes of the resignations of the two cabinet officers.

CLEAN UP GETS A GOOD START

Boy Scouts Active in Furthering Campaign

Port Arthur's clean-up week entered its second day today with Boy Scouts waging their city-wide campaign for better yards and alleys, and the Holton theaters giving tickets to children who bring 10 tin cans and a nickel to the Peoples, Pearce, Strand and Green Tree theaters.

The Scouts are visiting every section in Port Arthur during this week asking the co-operation of residents in the clean-up work. A division of Scouts is put in charge of 10 areas of Port Arthur, and at the end of the week, a committee of Lions Clubbers will visit these areas and prizes aggregating $50 will be awarded the three Scout troops in whose areas the best results are shown.

Health talks in Lincoln school will be made by physicians and Red Cross nurses Wednesday. Red Cross officials said today, and other events featuring health protection and clean-up projects are being handled in the negro section this week.

CHIEF'S REQUEST FOR MORE MEN DENIED

A request that more men be added to the fire department, made during regular session of city commissioners this morning, was rejected by the commission. The request was presented by Fire Chief Clyde LaRose. "We can't do that at this time," Mayor J. P. Logan said in replying for the council. "It will be impossible for us to consider increasing the department's staff until after the new budget is passed upon."

NOTE—This is the third of a series of articles describing conditions brought about in American cities through throwing their streets open to jitney service in competition with street car service or as a substitute for street car service. Preceding articles dealt with failures in Akron, Ohio, and Saginaw, Mich.

Special to The News.
DES MOINES, Ia., April 1.—In 1921 Des Moines' street car service felt the post-war crisis. The fare was five cents. The company operated at a heavy financial loss which it paid at the sacrifice of keeping up its equipment. Depreciations began to take a heavy toll and the city council refused to allow a fare increase. On August 4, 1921, the cars stopped. Jitneys took their place.

Low Fare Bubble Pierced
After two days tryout the outlook was far from encouraging. The city went to the jitney men and demanded to know what would be the cost of a real workable service such as could be supplied by the street rail. (Turn to Page 2, Column 1.)

POUND COLLECTIONS FOR MARCH TOTAL $158

Collections from the city pound department aggregated $158 for the month of March, according to a report submitted city commissioners this morning by G. W. Foote, poundmaster.

During the month a total of 79 head of stock were impounded in the city pound, including seven horses, one mule and 71 cows.

Ten dogs found to be infected with rabies and muzzes were killed during the month, and notices were served on 10 persons to pen up their chickens.

Y.M.B.L. STILL $500 IN RED

Endeavors to Pay off $2,500 Guarantee

Two thousand dollars have been paid Warren C. Giles, business manager of the St. Joseph (Western League) baseball club by the Port Arthur Y.M.B.L. on the guarantee of $2,500 contracted prior to the opening of spring training at Cosmopolitan Park here.

The club is still indebted to Manager Giles in the sum of $500, which the directorate hopes to raise and pay at once.

This is the report made the directors today noon during their regular weekly luncheon at New Lakeview Hotel, when A. C. Reichle made known the financial status of the St. Joe guaranty fund.

It was reported that the club is endeavoring to raise a portion of the remaining deficit through the nightly shows being conducted by McAlbert, the Miracle Man, at the Ferguson Alrdome.

Filed papers recently in an effort to oust a city official today denied having any knowledge of the petition being circulated. In view of this it (Turn to Page 2, Column 4.)

MURPHY AGAIN ASKS FOR PARK POSITION

Appearing before city commissioners this morning urging that he be appointed superintendent of Port Arthur's park at Port Neches, W. C. Murphy of that community renewed his application for the position. He was informed by commissioners that no appointments will be made until after the new budget is accepted by the citizenship, and that the park may be left in the custody of Superintendent Taylor.

McAlbert Answers Numerous Letters from Curious

McAlbert, the "miracle man", continuing his engagement in Port Arthur for the second week, today received numerous letters from Port Arthur's curious asking solution to their various problems. Mails were still crowded with letters to him in care of The News office, and he announced he was about two days behind in answering them.

Last night he spoke to a crowd of 500 or more at the some despite the cold, and will do his nightly lectures there three times under auspices of the Y.M.B.L.

Here are his answers today:
C. B.—This would have been the thing to do.
Mrs. A. C. R.—You will see your friend again.
Mrs. H. J. D.—I took the lad up.
A. J. N.—Your magic will be a success.

POLICE ACTIVE LAST 10 MONTHS

Department Sustains Self, Is Report

Report of activities of the police department for the last 10 months of the fiscal year ending yesterday showed that department to be almost 50 per cent self sustaining.

For that period Chief Covington in his report shows that $22,811.95 has been collected in cash fines, exclusive of the number of days work which have been put in by the city prisoners on the streets. Counting this the department has been more than self sustaining.

During the first 10 months of his administration Covington's report shows 2,916 arrests have been made by the department. This includes the number of men arrested on suspicion and later released after being questioned.

During this time an average of 155 men were worked monthly the average each month for each officer being almost 15 arrests.

The high mark set in the new police administration was the first month of the present chief's office when 334 arrests were made and a total of $1,236 in fines collected.

Shrubbery In City Will Be Cared For

J. O. Herpin, city engineer, today was authorized by city commissioners upon adoption of a motion by J. P. Logan, mayor, to employ two men to take care of city parks and shrubbery along the principal streets of the community.

Engineer Herpin reported that the condition of shrubbery at present calls for immediate attention, especially along Procter street and Lions park.

to gain by it."
BAIL FOR SINCLAIR
IS SET AT $5,000
WASHINGTON, April 1.—Bail for Harry F. Sinclair, indicted for contempt of the senate oil committee was set today at $5,000 by Justice Hitz of the district supreme court.

Sinclair has not yet appeared. If he does not present himself shortly a warrant for his arrest will be issued.

Baker Wants Catchers To Pen Up Dogs

The dog situation in Port Arthur is acute.

Dogs are going mad with rabies; dogs are running loose over the streets of the city minus their license tags.

This is, in substance, what Dr. O. I. Baker informed the commissioners this morning. Dr. Baker suggested that dog catchers should be put on at once to pen up the canines running free, and said he thought it wise for the city to insist on people paying the tax and making their doggies wear their licenses.

Dog days begin May 1, officially, when the new taxes will be due, Mayor Logan remarked during the discussion, and catchers will probably be turned loose to hunt up the delinquent canines at that time.

Body of Patterson, Unclaimed, Buried

After remaining unclaimed in the Grimmer morgue since February 8 while futile efforts were made to locate possible relatives and friends, the body of Louis Peterson about 65, for many years night watchman at the Kansas City Southern docks here, was buried in Greenlawn cemetery today at the expense of the courts.

Peterson is believed to have been a native of Sweden, and although he had a number of acquaintances in Port Arthur, where he had resided for a number of years, working along the water front here, none was able to locate any relatives he may have had. The watchman's body was found in the cotton docks. Death had apparently occurred several hours before from natural causes.
